Carter to aid Reagan transition...

by The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — President-elect Ronald Reagan will work with President Carter during the transition before Reagan's inauguration to develop a plan acceptable to both administrations for winning the release of the 52 American hostages in Iran, Reagan's advisers said Wednesday.

Edwin Meese, Reagan's campaign chief of staff, said that no agreement had been reached yet on how to proceed "because the two gentlemen just talked last night."

"We will work out a way in which to cooperate in any fashion that might help our national interest and help in getting the hostages home," Meese said.

"Precisely how that relationship will be effected we don't know at this time."

Asked if Reagan would veto a Carter plan deemed unacceptable to the incoming president, Meese noted that Reagan has no authority to act until Inauguration Day, Jan. 20.

However, he added, "It is our effort to work cooperatively with the present administration to provide for a continuity of government policy, so the circumstances you are talking about, I would say, I would have a hard time believing that could happen."

Carter said he would work for a smooth transition from his one-term administration to the one Reagan will begin on Jan. 20, when he is inaugurated 40th president of the United States. At nearly 70, he will be the oldest man ever to take that oath of office.

As the nationwide tally in a low-turnout election neared completion, the dimensions of the Reagan landslide - and mandate - were the numbers.

With 99 percent of the precincts counted, Reagan had 43 million votes, or 51 percent; Carter 34.7 million or 41 percent; independent John B. Anderson 5.5 million or seven percent, and Libertarian Ed Clark one percent.

That translated to 483 electoral votes for Reagan compared to only 49 for Carter. Reagan needed only 270 electoral votes to win.

The former California governor swept every one of the 10 biggest states, winning even in such solid Democratic territory as Massachusetts. Even Carter's native South, save his home state of Georgia, turned against him.

...while locals react to outcome

by Tim Schmidt

Reactions to Tuesday's election results varied from different party organizations but those who suffered the most disappointment seemed to come from the democratic camp.

Joe Connelly, democratic chairman of Coles County, said late Tuesday "It has been a very bad night for the Democrats," as Republicans swept all the county races.

Connelly and about 40 guests, many of whom were students, waited for the results from his home.

"Many kids who worked the election showed up. They worked hard and they care," he said.

Connelly said he was happy with the voter turnout in the three student precincts.

On the presidential race, Connelly said, "I am disappointed but not shocked. I thought it would be closer."

Connelly said Carter, who received 32.6 percent of the vote in Coles County, lost the race for many reasons, including the people's unhappiness with inflation and high interest rates.

He added good local candidates, even though they have nothing to do with the President's policies, suffer a backlash from the dissatisfaction.

Overall, Connelly said he felt the election went smoothly and had good turnout.

Generally a high turnout is good for Democrats since there are more registered democratic voters, but Connelly said in this case it appeared Democrats crossed over.

In regard to the Reagan presidency, Connelly said, "I think he'll be a lousy president. He'll be a part-time president like he was a part-time governor."

Connelly said the only time he has felt worse about a presidential election was in 1968 when Nixon narrowly defeated Humphrey for president.

Connelly also said he was "bitterly disappointed" with the results of the Voelz/Crane race for Congress. But he said the Democrats can be happy for Larry Stuffle finishing ahead of the favored Harry "Babe" Woodyard in the state representative race in Coles County and for Alan Dixon in his U.S. Senate victory.

Stuffle, who retained his democratic seat in the Illinois House, said he thought the presidential race would have been closer than the totals indicated.

"I didn't think it would be that dramatic," Stuffle said.

Referring to the Reagan victory, Stuffle said "They (the voters) are going to regret it and regret it damn quick—but they'll have to live with it."

All eyes and ears were focused intently on the television during the presidents concession speech.

One woman was heard to say, "I can't imagine him losing. It hasn't been that bad."

Voelz fares well in first race

by Susan Schlanser

Although Pete Voelz was a newcomer to the political scene, the percentage totals in his congressional race against Republican incumbent Dan Crane rivaled those of many prominent Democrats across the country.

Voelz received 31 percent of the vote in the 22nd district. Receiving only 10 percent more, President Jimmy Carter received 41 percent of the national vote in his re-election race against president-elect Ronald Reagan.

"Pete Voelz has done as well as any Democrat anywhere," Bruce Scism, Voelz's campaign manager said. "For an unknown he has gone pretty far."

Voelz cited lack of money as the primary problem in running his campaign. Other factors the Paris native listed were stating late in the campaign, not being listed on the primary ballot, not having enough name recognition or a proper power base.

He said his number one asset in the campaign was the people who worked for him.

During the primary, Voelz ran as a write-in alternative to Crane, who was running uncontested.

"I wanted to provide a respectable alternative to voters who didn't want to vote for Crane but didn't think it was right not to vote at all," Voelz said.

Student voter percentage lower than county turnout

by Mickey O'Connell

Student voting precincts in Charleston had a lower voter percentage in Tuesday's election than Coles County overall, but the student turnout was termed higher than usual by election officials.

Results from those polling places designated as student voter precincts, 9, 14, 15, 16 and 17, had an average 49 percent voter turnout, compared to 68 percent in Coles County.

Charleston Precinct 9, which includes 6th Street, had the highest voting percentage with 66 percent, while Charleston Precinct 17 had a low voter turnout of 36 percent.

However, Precinct 9 also includes Charleston residents, while 17 is strictly a student precinct.

In the national election, both student and county voters showed a preference for Ronald Reagan. The county precincts voted 58 percent for Reagan while the student precincts gave him 43 percent of the vote.

Campus voters showed a higher favoritism for John Anderson, giving him 22 percent of the vote, while in Coles County Anderson received only 8 percent. Jimmy Carter carried 22 percent in both the student and county vote.

In the race for U.S. Congress, Peter Voelz led the student vote with 51 percent. In the county election Dan Crane defeated Voelz with 63 percent of the vote.

The county voter turnout increased by almost four percent since the last presidential election, County Clerk Jackie Bacon said Wednesday.

"This increase in voters could be linked to a need for change, sensed by the people of the county."

Bacon said the high percentage of Republican votes in the County is not uncommon, as it has been traditionally a Republican county.

Carter ponders future, pledges Reagan support

WASHINGTON — President Carter said today he feels "at ease," plans to write his memoirs and is determined to help President-elect Ronald Reagan in every way possible.

In an interview with reporters in the Oval Office, the President said losing was "not a pleasant experience," but he will be relieved to hand over the daily routine to someone else.

Asked whether he intended to seek the presidency again, Carter replied: "That's a question I have not even dreamed about."

After the 35-minute interview, the president and his wife Rosalynn flew to their Camp David, Md., retreat to rest and ponder their future in the wake of Reagan's landslide victory. Hundreds of aides and his Cabinet gathered on the South Lawn to see him off.

Carter said he will remain at the hideaway for a week, except for brief trips back to the White House.

"I really need to go off by myself and think for awhile," Carter said.

House cutback passes by 2-1 margin

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Illinois voters decided Tuesday that the state House could use a cleaning — of 59 seats:

So, by a margin of 2-1, Illinoisans approved the state's first binding citizen referendum. The measure will reduce the current size of the lower chamber from 177 to 118 seats.

Patrick Quinn, author of the Constitutional amendment, attributed the result to the voters' desire for a greater say in government affairs but not to take revenge for a hefty legislative pay raise of two years ago.

"Everybody talks about the pay raise and that was a big issue," said Quinn, founder of the Coalition for Political Honesty that spearheaded the cutback drive.

"But I think that what folks were basically saying in approving the cutback referendum, was that they want a greater role in their government," he said.

With more than 80 percent of the state's 11,687 precincts tallied, the proposition was passing by a comfortable margin of about 67 percent.

The so-called Cutback Proposition needed 60 percent approval from those voting on the issue to become part of the state Constitution.

The proposal, which affects the 1983 legislature, scraps with 1982 elections the unique, 110-year-old cumulative voting method for electing three members from each of the 59 House districts.

Reagan's election to delay hostage release, Iran says

Ronald Reagan's election will delay the release of the 52 American hostages held in Iran but will not change the conditions for freeing them, Iranian officials said Wednesday.

The spiritual adviser to the militants holding the hostages, deputy parliament speaker Hojatoleslam Moosavi Khoeniha, was quoted by Tehran Radio as saying in an interview with Greek television:

"Because President Carter was already in office, we would have reached a solution faster if he were re-elected. With Reagan's victory this will need a long time. I think Carter's policy has failed in the United States and this has no effect on the hostage issue."

Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai as well as Khoeniha said in interviews with the Iranian news agency Pars that the election of Reagan would have no effect on Iran or on its conditions for release of the hostages, Tehran Radio said.

Khoeniha was quoted as saying the hostages will be put on trial if the United States does not act on Iran's conditions for releasing them. Khoeniha headed the committee which drafted the conditions, approved Sunday by the Majlis, the Iranian Parliament.

Student senators argue SCORE legitimacy

by Patty O'Neill

Student Senators opposing the Students Coordinating Optional Referendum Efforts, SCORE, argued at Wednesday's Student Senate meeting that the check and balance system would be taken away from the University if SCORE passes on the Nov. 12 ballot.

The referendum would allow students the power over the administration in deciding how student activity fees will be utilized, Bill Houlihan, SCORE committee member, said.

Houlihan added if SCORE is passed, students will have a better check and balance system at Eastern because the media, as well as the administration, will keep a closer eye on referendums.

However, senior Don Hejmanowski opposes SCORE, saying if passed, the referendum will take away the checks and balance system from the Senate.

"Senators are here to check the system. How can we give students the right to have referendums binding? Can students have power over such items as grants-in-aids?" Hejmanowski said.

"SCORE sounded great when I first heard about it, but I realized students are not informed well enough to make such important decisions," he added.

"Eastern is like a city. Student fees are like taxes. If we're paying the taxes and vote as members of a city, the results should be implemented," SCORE committee member Debbie Tymczuk said.

Houlihan said the Mass Transit issue, which was vetoed by Marvin in September, was the last straw that broke the camel's back and got us thinking about developing SCORE.

SCORE committee member Bonnie Bijak added if SCORE had been in effect last year, the administration would have looked closer at the Mass Transit referendum before it was voted on, and would have pointed out the infeasibility of the proposal.

Houlihan said he spoke with the Attorney General's office in Springfield and said they can give out opinions on cases and that opinion will act as the law until it is challenged.

In addition, Houlihan contacted attorney John Tira who is active in student government at Illinois State. Tira said a court case would be expensive, however, as 9,000 students and the BOG would have to sit down and discuss their decision.

Students relax after long, hard campaigns

by Vicki Shaw

"The joy of victory and the agony of defeat."

It's a common saying that many students experienced first hand following the results of "Election '80."

Students for Anderson congregated in Sporty's basement Tuesday night to enjoy the company of those they had gotten to know so well during the long campaign. Amidst the beer and music, two televisions were set up for those interested in watching the progress of the election.

When asked her opinion about the result of the election, one Anderson supporter replied, "Have a beer!"

But on a more serious side, Brenda Hamm, one of the coordinators of the student group, noted that claims stating Anderson was taking votes away from Carter just wasn't true.

"If you add the percentages, you notice Anderson is not a spoiler. The two percentages combined (Carter and Anderson) do not add up to the percentage Reagan has right now," she said.

Turnout percentages in student voting precincts for Tuesday's election was lower than percentages for Coles County overall. However, student voting turnout rose in comparison to previous years, according to election replied, "I can do my homework again."

Although they were the victors, the College Republicans decided against meeting together, but strong feelings were still present.

"We're not only pleased he (Reagan) won but won so big, and also that a lot of liberals got knocked out of office," Steve Scholes, president of the group, said Tuesday night while watching the returns come in at the Coles County courthouse.

He said the members of the group worked hard and the results went way beyond their expectations.

When asked why he thought the turnout was the way it was, Scholes said, "I think the people are fed up with big government and federal spending. They want someone new in office."

Scholes, a pre-law major, said there are approximately 75 members in the group who worked hard in fund-raising, membership drives, and just overall working for the senior party.

"We have a few people who are precinct committeemen and election judges," he added.

officials. The five student precincts had an average of 49 percent turnout, compared to 68 percent for Coles County. (News photo by Tom Roberts)

The Daily Eastern News

This is not the way to SCORE

The SCORE referendum which will appear on the ballot Nov. 12 will not give Eastern students more power in deciding where student fee money will be allocated and should be rejected.

Although the idea behind SCORE may be a good one, the referendum is an unrealistic approach to gaining student involvement in allocation of fees.

The referendum, Students Coordinating Optional Referendum Efforts (SCORE), would give students power over the university administration in deciding where student fees would be spent.

Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin currently has no obligation to follow the opinion expressed in a student referendum. SCORE would change this with student majority opinion superseding the authority of Marvin.

We agree that the allocation of student fees contrary to student opinion is wrong. But SCORE will not change the situation.

Trying to amend the referendum process through a student referendum does not make sense. If students want to change the weight of referendum results, action to amend the BOG bylaws should be taken. The BOG has appointed Marvin as the final authority on campus and considers student referendum results as merely advisory.

If the student body approves this measure in next week's referendum, Marvin would most likely veto the SCORE proposal instead of sending it to the BOG for final approval. The SCORE advocates are not being realistic to expect Marvin to approve a measure which would make him subordinate to the student body.

SCORE supporters have threatened to take this issue to court if Marvin vetoes SCORE. This would be futile. Vice President for Student Affairs Glenn Williams has said similar court cases have been filed across the country and have resulted in defeat for the students' interests.

We believe the principles behind SCORE are worth fighting for, but the methods being used will lead to no productive end.

SCORE advocates should reconsider this proposal and take the proper channels through the Eastern administration and the BOG to change the status of student referendum results. Perhaps they could get other BOG university student bodies to join in the effort.

As for SCORE, vote NO on Nov. 12 to show the SCORE committee that it is taking the wrong approach to this problem.

Your Turn

Vote yes for SCORE

Editor:

Our objective, and we hope the students' also, is to promote the presence of a directly active student body in the process of student fee increases and decreases. As the constitution of our student government now stands, a student referendum is equal to an opinion poll.

SCORE would like to see you, the students, change this for yourselves. The goal of any democracy is to promote the greatest good for the greatest number. Through our proposed change, students are invested with the responsibility of one person-one vote control of our fee proposals.

Unfortunately, students are noted for being apathetic toward elections. A major cause of this inaction is the feeling of ineffectiveness. When we take the purpose of student referendums from the "informational" stage to the legal and binding stage, there is an accompanying shift in responsibility.

A university is not a building or a whole campus, it is the people and the ideas they generate; thus, a university is not better than its collective student thought. Can it be our university feels its students to be merely capable of an opinion?

Please read this proposal over carefully and grasp the spirit of responsibility present in the wording. This community is the real world, our world. In this proposal the possibility exists for every student to make this university a statement of our energies and capabilities. Score one for yourself.

Vote YES on Nov. 12.

Fee hike is wrong

Editor:

So the truth finally comes out. We don't need more money to move into Division I. In fact, according to R.C. Johnson, "...by going Division I, Eastern will be able to save money."

His example of no longer spending $15,000 to $20,000 on such games as Northern Michigan but instead playing closer Division I schools such as Indiana State at a cost of $790 would seem to indicate a substantial reduction in expenses.

Based on Johnson's own analysis of the situation, then, does an increase in the athletic fee from the present $43 per year to the proposed $61 per year follow logically? I do not think so, and neither do many concerned Eastern students.

Vote NO and stop the athletic fee increase.

Calm down! They're only mom, dad

Andy Robeznieks

Parents' Weekend is only a day away and students are scrambling to clean up their rooms and are deciding what to hide before their folks come down Saturday.

Students whose parents aren't coming down aren't going about their business as usual either. They're busy handling requests from fellow students to store bongos, whiskey bottles and piles of skin magazines over the weekend.

A lot of decisions have to be made by students whose parents are coming down. For example, do you think your parents will be upset when they see your beer can and Jack Daniels bottle collection? They might not care now, but come finals week you may be wishing that they didn't know how much you partied this semester. It might be wise to play it safe and find a place to stash the collection until Sunday night.

Also, some guys must be wondering whether to keep their girly posters on the walls or take them down. Mothers might not be offended by Playboy centerfolds, but by all means don't forget to take the Hustler pin-ups down.

In the men's residence halls, the new way to become Mr. Popular is to be the only guy on the floor with furniture polish. And toilet paper is becoming scarce in the halls as people who discover they have no furniture polish also discover they have nothing to dust with.

Speaking of dust, don't forget to look under your bed—you know your mother will. The last time I went to sweep under my bed I heard growling noises that scared me away.

After everything is cleaned up or hidden away, don't forget to check the refrigerator. Depending on your parents, you might want to get rid of the beer you have or get some more, maybe a lot more.

If you're undecided on this subject, the weekend might turn out better if you did stock up on beer. Parents' Weekend, if treated wrong, can be really depressing.

Too often Parents' Weekend consists of a busy schedule of rushing between the football game, dinner and the concert. After the concert, parents return to their motel rooms and students head for the bars to talk to other students about how boring the game, the dinner and the concert were.

Sunday morning, parents and students are reunited, go out to eat breakfast together and say goodbye. Parents drive home and students hurry to collect what they had hidden from sight. The whole deal is over and things are back to normal.

Many students treat their parents like intruders instead of welcome guests. The weekend might turn out better if there were less activities and parents and students had nothing to do but sit and talk.

It might be a good idea to blow off going out to an expensive dinner and standing in a long line. Instead, you could take mom and dad to your favorite bar. Give them a casual tour of the campus and a night on the town as opposed to a crowded itinerary where every second is planned.

You might just have fun on Parents' Weekend for a change.

Reps voice reactions to election results

by Sandy Young

The results of the state representative race for the 53rd legislative district were indicative of the overall Republican trend in the Tuesday elections. Two Republicans and one Democrat respectively were elected in the district.

Incumbent Larry Stuffle of Charleston, the only Democratic representative elected, said Coles County was part of a "Republican trend" throughout the country.

However, Stuffle ran first in vote totals in the county—though he was third in the district overall.

Stuffle attributed this Republican trend to dissatisfaction with President Jimmy Carter.

He also said Democrats—including himself—were hurt by the fact that many persons who were not "regular voters" went to the polls Tuesday.

He said these persons did not vote for issues, but instead voted for Reagan on top and followed a straight-party Republican ticket.

Stuffle added he does not know why he was the only Democrat to do well in Coles County.

Harry "Babe" Woodyard, R-Chrisman, gathered the most votes in the 53rd district.

Woodyard said he was surprised to be first in the totals, as he had felt Stuffle would "run high."

"I thought Stuffle did a fantastic job garnering that many votes in this Republican election," he added.

Woodyard said the Republican party's dominance in the elections was "much bigger than anyone expected or anticipated."

He especially expressed surprise at Reagan's landslide win over Carter.

Woodyard said Carter's strength in the March primaries had indicated he would be very difficult to beat in this election.

"I thought it (the election) would be within 2 percentage points," Woodyard added.

Steve Miller, a Republican from Catlin who ran second in the district, also said he was surprised at the amount of support Reagan received.

Miller said he thought the hostage crisis hurt Carter's chances in the election.

"People are tired of the U.S. being pushed around," he said.

Miller said the elections "went pretty much as I had imagined for Republican incumbents."

However, he added the Republican party "missed a golden opportunity by not electing Dave O'Neal (to the Senate)."

Faculty Senate opinions vary on athletic fee

by Cathy Crist

Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson's presentation of the proposed $9 athletic fee increase met with mixed reactions from the Faculty Senate Tuesday afternoon.

Lewis Coon, former IAB chairman, and NCAA Eastern representative to the Intercollegiate Athletic Board Jimmie Franklin met with the Senate to explain the proposal.

There was some discussion over why the Faculty Senate was interested in the proposal because in October it voted to send the issue to Student Senate for its consideration.

Leonard Wood, Faculty Senate chairman, said, "I feel this issue is a legitimate concern to the Senate. Although we haven't taken a position yet, and we may not, the Senate was very pleased with the discussion at the meeting and were very responsive to the speakers."

Senator Joe Carey of the school of education, said, "Everything on this campus concerns the Faculty Senate in some way."

After turning the proposal over to the Student Senate, "The Student Senate, then unanimously voted to refer the proposal to the student body, and they will vote on it Nov. 12."

Coon explained the rationale behind the fee increase, which would also give money to athletic support to the marching and pep bands, pink panthers and cheerleaders.

He said if Eastern wants to move into Division I, the teams need more money for such things as traveling expenses and overnight stays.

However, Johnson said last week that the increase is necessary regardless of Eastern's expected move to Division I next fall.

In addition, both Johnson and Eastern President Daniel E. Marvin have said the increase will reduce traveling costs by allowing Eastern to play nearby Division I schools.

Johnson cited the need for the increase as inflation, maintaining a high quality athletic program and creating a fixed source of income.

Coon said, "Dollar for dollar we are getting the best athletic program in the country, but it could be better."

Johnson said the athletic program faces a serious problem at Eastern as do many other schools and universities.

The athletic director's support of the increase extends to his contention that, "If the proposal fails, I want it to fail because students don't want it, not because they aren't aware of it."

Senator Scott Smith of the physics department, said he is concerned about where exactly the money is going.

Johnson said, "We don't know where it is all going yet. It's very difficult to tell how much each sport will get."

Senator Laverne Hamand, who originated the motion at last week's Senate meeting to oppose the fee increase, said, "Can Eastern afford this fee increase? Why don't we just relax and play who we can afford to play? We just can't compete with these big schools, and it's not fair for the students to pay for this."

Senator June Johnson said, "Apparently the athletic fee increase is necessary, but it is unfortunate for the students who are not interested in athletics. I see the need for it, but I am not in favor of the increase."

Asterisk by prerequisites offered by committee

by Cathy Crist

Proposed solutions for the prerequisites problem and the grade appeals policy were outlined at the Student Senate Academic Affairs meeting Wednesday night.

Russ Robb, committee chairman, said he met with the deans of the various schools at their Thursday meeting to present the committee's suggestion for making students more aware of the prerequisites for certain courses.

The proposed solution is to put an asterisk or some type of symbol by the courses with prerequisites in the course scheduling booklet. Also, a paragraph would be put in the front of the booklet reminding students to note the change.

Robb said the deans seemed very much in favor of the suggestion and will be working out certain technical details such as what symbol will be used.

The committee also discussed a possible change in the grade appeals policy. Cindy Rozmin, Academic Affairs committee member, explained the current policy.

To revise a grade a student first talks to the instructor within four weeks of the next semester. If no solution is reached or the teacher is not available, the student can contest the grade with the department head.

After this step, the committee proposes a change. Currently a student, after filing a written appeal, has a private "fact finding" session with the Department Personnel Committee. The DPC then can recommend a solution to the complaint, but have no actual authority to change the grade.

Another suggestion to the current grade appeals policy, she added, would be to have a final appeals board that would have a binding vote and the teacher would have to change the grade.

The appeals board could be an all-campus committee, as opposed to separate departmental ones, with a faculty representative from each of the seven schools.

Seven classes sponsored by Charleston Rec Dept

by Keith Palmgren

Cave trips, Christmas crafts and belly dancing are among seven classes being offered by the Charleston Recreation Department beginning Saturday and continuing throughout the winter.

The first activity is a cave trip Saturday to Buckner's Cave near Bloomington, Ind., Sue Bartling,

Graduate recital presented here

Pianist Jane Kochis will present her graduate recital at 8 p.m. Thursday in Dvorak Concert Hall.

Jan Faires of the music department, said Kochis will present Scriabin's "Nocturne for the Left Hand," Beethoven's "Sonata No. 13 in E-flat Major," and a Chopin Ballade.

Since Kochis' degree is piano performance with accompanying emphasis, she will accompany four singers, Faires said.

Baritone Tim McGinley, soprano Lisa Mammoser and baritone Sal Viviano will present selections by Dupard, Mozart, and Ives. The final selection will feature singers Mammoser, Cindy Mauer, Richard AmRhein and McGinley in Schumann's "Ich bin geliegt", Faires said.

assistant director of the department, said recently.

The cost of the trip is $5.

Five other recreation classes will begin Tuesday.

Floral arranging will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Recreation Department's office at 520 Jackson, Bartling said. The cost for enrolling in the class is $3 per night or $10 for all four classes. The price does not include flowers.

Aerobic class will be held from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Jefferson Grade School cafeteria, located north of the square, Bartling said. The class fee is $20 for 10 one-hour classes and is open to persons 18 years and older.

Co-rec volleyball will be offered from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Jefferson Grade School gym. The class is open to persons 18 years and older and a fee of $10 is charged, she said.

Correction

The dates for voting in the "Kiss My Ass" contest sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega were incorrect in Monday's Daily Eastern News. Voting will take place Nov. 13, 14 and 17 in the University Union Lobby. Groups interested in participating can call Debbie Cagle at 2851 or Randy Overton at 348-0026.

the baseball standings when he said, "He (Carter) didn't do any better than the Cubs did."

In the Reagan camp, reactions were quite a bit different.

Duane Wetzel, Coles County Republican chairman, said Wednesday, "I don't think it is time to rub salt in the wound. I think we must all work together to make this a better place to live."

In the Anderson camp, Bruce Guernsey, co-coordinator for Coles County said, "We were pleased, though we hoped we would get a higher percentage of the vote."

Anderson received 8.35 percent in Coles County.

Guernsey made the point that the votes Anderson received were all for him. He added many Reagan votes were anti-Carter votes.

Voelz said he believed he fulfilled this purpose because he said his campaign made Crane stay in the district and spend money to win the election.

Voelz, who often criticized Crane as being an ultra-conservative, said Crane will become a more moderate congressman as a result of the campaign.

"Sure he'll change," Voelz said, "I think he'll do more compromising because we got his attention."

Bids considered for new Andrews water pumps

by Peggy Schneider

Bids for the replacement of malfunctioning water pumps in Andrews Hall will be considered this week by Physical Plant Assistant Director Marty Ignazito.

Funeral service for Munson set tomorrow

by Kathy Murray

Memorial services for Eve Munson, 55, former secretary in the Student Activities Office, will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Arlington National Cemetery in Arlington, Va.

Mrs. Munson was the wife of Byron Munson of the sociology department.

Mrs. Munson died of cancer on Oct. 16 at Mercy Hospital in Champaign.

She was a secretary in the Marine Corps for two years during World War II and worked at the corps' headquarters in Arlington, Va. during 1944 and 1945.

Don Cook, director of student activities, was Munson's supervisor when she worked in the Student Activities Office. "Eve was a good secretary. She served the students in this office well," Cook said. Munson worked in the Student Activities Office from 1975 until this past summer.

Her husband said he and his wife have lived in this area since 1967.

Ignazito said he hopes to select the best bid for the $10,000 pumping system by the end of the week.

Target date for the installation is presently set for the Christmas holidays, Housing Director Lou Hencken said.

"We have made several repairs of Andrews' 15-year-old system and have found that we spend more money in repairs than it would cost to buy a new pump," Hencken said.

The continuously variable system now in use is "obsolete", Ignazito said.

Eastern can "no longer obtain spare parts from the manufacturer" which has discontinued the parts, Ignazito said.

The system is designed to automatically increase or decrease pressure as needed, he said.

The new system will provide varied pressure service in "stages" through the use of three pumps, Ignazito said.

A small pump will provide 25 percent of the load. When greater pressure is needed, a second larger pump takes over and the smaller pump may shut off. When the largest capacity of 280 gallons a minute is needed, the third pump goes into operation, Ignazito said.

The house pumps push the water beyond the fourth floor of the residence halls and are operated automatically, Hencken said.

Prices hiked to cover loss

In response to a recent request by the Student Senate, Warbler editor-in-chief Beth Murphy and adviser David Reed told the Senate, prices for organizational pictures have increased in order to cover a loss of $6,000 in their budget.

Prices for a half page group picture has increased to $50 from last year's rate of $15. Full page group pictures have increased to $100 from last year's rate of $30.

However, the cost of one page group pictures to the Warbler is actually $127, Reed said.

Reed said the Warbler staff is requesting $6,000 from the Apportionment Board which the AB had withdrawn earlier.

The Warbler's budget is based on anticipated revenues and fee monies. Under the fee monies, the AB has agreed to pay off the Daily Eastern News press and Unisetter, amounting to $12,000. The $6,000, which was to cover costs of the recently purchased Visual Display Terminals, was withdrawn from the fee monies budget, Reed said.

However, the $6,000 was for the Warbler budget, Reed said.

Murphy said, "Although the usual process is to go before the Publications Board with a fund request, but there was no Board formed yet and we had to make a decision. We had two options. One, to cut the number of pages, which would mean the 82 pages of organizations would go first.

Even before there was football, there was Stroh's.

Football has been around a long time.

In fact, the very first football game played in America was at Princeton University in 1869.

But the Stroh family has been making beer even longer; since way before that first kickoff. For over 200 years.

And how can you possibly improve upon two long-standing American traditions like football and Stroh's?

It's simple.

Combine them.

Elections for basketball greeter candidate will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday in the University Union Old Ballroom.

Students must present a validated ID to be eligible for voting, Bonnie Bijak, chairman of the election said.

The candidates are Jean Gutzler, Tonya Jackson, Candie Kastning, Mary May, Brenda Milk, Stephanie Newton, Julie Pistone, Desti Ragano and Lynn Schneider.

The winner of the election will be announced at halftime of the Parents' Weekend football game, Bijak said.

Dorm rooms get painted

by Julie Held

University painters are continuing in the process of painting dorm rooms in Taylor Hall, Lou Hencken, director of student housing said Wednesday.

The painting began Oct. 20 on the north side of the building on the fifth floor and will proceed down to the first floor, Hencken said. Taylor south will be done the same way, he added.

University painters are averaging two rooms per day, Hencken said.

The Housing Office has a regular painting schedule and Taylor was next on the list, Hencken said. During the summer months, rooms that really need it are painted, but most of the painting is done during the regular academic year, he said.

"All of the residence halls will be painted eventually," Hencken said.

Students are allowed to choose the color that their room will be painted and those rooms that the students paint at the beginning of the semester will not be touched by the painters if the paint job was good, he said.

"Yes it (the painting) is an inconvenience to the students but there are only three summer months and we could never get to paint it all," Hencken said. "I don't know of any other way to do it."

He said the end of the painting project can not be predicted for two reasons.

There is no way to tell how many coats of paint each individual room will need and also cooperation of the students is a consideration for how long the project will take, Hencken said.

of the game and his second at 10:46 of the second half off an assist from Hough.

Fernando Beer scored the booters' sixth goal off an assist from another senior, Dave Hancock 31:47 into the second half.

Freshman John Scanga then scored the Panthers' final goal off an assist from Jim Stabenow 36:36 into the second half.

"I'm pleased with today's game, but I'm especially pleased with the goals. Several of them were good outside shots. We've been working on that in training" Hyndman said.

Eastern had three goalie saves in the contest, which was not very physical.

opposite of Eastern's, Canale said. He said Eastern must go Division I because other Division I schools are close to Charleston while other Division II schools are too distant to consistently travel to.

"I feel it's a great move for Eastern Illinois University sports," Canale said.

Another reason NMU must remain Division II is the depressed auto and steel industries in Michigan. He said these conditions have affected outside athletic contributions to the point where NMU has had to drop skiing, women's tennis and men's and women's gymnastics.

He said these actions dropped Northern Michigan's athletic budget from $1 million to $750,000, but this was still not enough of a savings for NMU to go Division I.

"We examined it very carefully and we found that it would cost us $250,000 to $300,000 to go Division I," Canale said.

It would cost that much for NMU to go Division I "basically because of travel and financial aids," Canale said.

Overall inflation, which has affected many athletic programs in areas such as equipment, is another reason Northern Michigan will remain Division II, Canale said.

"Everything is skyrocketing to the point where you say 'hey, we can't do this anymore,'" Canale said.

The athletic director also said "another factor affecting us is Title IX."

Title IX is a federal law requiring equal funding for men's and women's sports.

"The women's salaries have to come up and their programs have to be upgraded," Canale said.

For these reasons, Canale said Northern Michigan will join a Division II conference consisting of all Michigan schools in 1982-83.

Northern Michigan will compete as an independent next year, Canale said.

The conference, called the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference, now consists of Michigan Tech., Wayne State, Grande Valley, Saginaw, Oakland University, Lake Superior State College, Ferris State and Northwood Institute.

Although it is financially necessary, Northern Michigan coaches are not happy their school is remaining Division II, Canale said.

"The coaches are disheartened with it because of the rivalries we have built up in the MCC," Canale said.

The athletic director also said their are several negative aspects to Northern Michigan's remaining Division II.

"The bad point is you don't get the national visibility you do in Division I," Canale said.

He also said "we won't have a chance at that TV football money."

The money Division I and I-AA schools receive for their televised football games is considerably more than that which Division II teams are paid.

And Canale said NMU's recruiting and school spirit could also be adversely affected by remaining in Division II.

Booters clinch playoff berth with 7-0 romp

by Holly Headland

Eastern's soccer Panthers probably clinched a post-season playoff bid Wednesday by burying Blackburn College 7-0 in their last regular-season home game.

Freshman striker Damien Kelly scored two goals and five other booters scored one goal each in Eastern's victory.

"We'll get a post-season bid. I'd like it to be the No. 2 position. We'll be playing in the first round of the playoffs which will be finished by Nov. 15," Eastern coach Schellas Hyndman said.

In the NCAA Division II soccer playoffs, bids are awarded to two teams from each of the four regions, West, South, East and Midwest-Mideast. Two wildcard bids are also given to two other teams in the four regions. Eastern is in the Midwest-Mideast region.

Eastern may possibly be receiving post-season bids along with either the University of Missouri-St. Louis or Lockhaven. The Panthers may also be the third team from the Midwest-Mideast region if they are awarded a wildcard bid.

Gordon Prempeh scored the booters' first goal 8:23 into the first half off a double assist from Silvano Corazza and Sandro Addressi.

Addressi crossed the ball to Blackburn's far post, Corazza headed it towards the goal and Prempeh put it in.

Gordie Weidle scored next at 29:13 off a pass from Corazza. Corazza then assisted Kelly on the first of his two goals at 30:41 when he headed the ball towards Blackburn's goal and Kelly kicked it in.

Sophomore George Hough blasted in an unassisted goal at 43:34 of the first half to increase Eastern's lead to 4-0.

Ticket prices will increase if athletic fee is not instituted

by Andy Savoie

If Eastern's proposed athletic fee increase is voted down, student ticket prices will have to be raised, Eastern Athletic Director R.C. Johnson said last week.

"We would have no other recourse but to raise ticket prices," Johnson said.

Eastern students will vote on the proposed $9 per semester increase in a Nov. 12 referendum.

"From a financial standpoint, we could probably go half way through next year before we would feel some impact," Johnson said.

But after that, Johnson said three measures would have to be taken.

"We'd have to freeze the men's budgets and use any monies available to bring up the women's budgets," Johnson said.

Title IX regulations require the university to fund women's athletics in proportion to men's, thus forcing Eastern to either increase funding to the women's programs or decrease men's funding.

The additional two steps would be to cut back the men's budgets and eliminate some sports, Johnson said.

As for the long-term effects the defeat of the referendum would cause, Johnson said "I don't know."

"I hate to think we'd have to go back to the students every year asking for money," Johnson said.

Grid TV revenue may increase in Division I

(Editors note: This is the fourth in a series of six articles examining the ramifications of Eastern's move to Division I next year.)

by Andy Savoie

Eastern's football team may have a chance for more television revenue at the NCAA Division I-AA level than it does at the Division II level, Jim Shafer of the NCAA football television department said earlier this semester.

"If you're looking for an advantage to going I-AA, I'd say there is potentially more television revenue at that level," Shafer said from his Shawnee Mission, Kan. office.

Next fall, Eastern is moving into the Division I-AA classification in football, which is a level between Division II and Division I-A.

The rest of Eastern's sports will compete at the I-A level, where such schools as the University of Illinois compete.

Shafer said Eastern will have a chance for greater football television revenue next year for three reasons:

—ABC television pays more money for a regional I-AA contest than it does for a Division II football game.

—There are less than half as many I-AA football teams than there are Division II teams.

—ABC is contracted to televise roughly the same number of I-AA and Division II football games each season.

A regionally-telecast Division II

Moving to Division I: A closer look football game on ABC receives $30,000, while a I-AA game gets $420,929, Shafer said.

These monies are allotted between the two schools in a game, which then split the money with its respective conference members if they are in a conference, Shafer said.

Eastern Athletic Director R.C.

Johnson said Eastern received $7,500 for its regionally telecast game with Northern Michigan Nov. 1.

Both schools are currently Division II, Mid-Continent Conference schools.

But Johnson said Eastern's share would have been $60,000 had both Eastern and NMU been I-AA schools.

And Eastern will have a better chance at earning this type of I-AA money than it would at getting a lesser amount in Division II, Shafer said.

This is because there are only 46 I-AA teams, 110 Division II teams, and roughly an equal number of regional games televised for both classifications, Shafer said.

Shafer said ABC must televise four Division II regular-season games, two semi-final playoff games and the championship playoff game yearly.

The television network is also contracted to televise 11 I-AA regular-season games in the next two years, and two semi-final playoff and one championship game each year, Shafer said.

This means ABC is obligated to regionally televise at least eight and one-half I-AA football games per year, while it also must show a total of seven Division II games yearly.

Location keeps NMU in Division II

(This is the fifth in a series of six articles examining the ramifications of Eastern's move to Division I next year)

by Andy Savoie

Because of its location, inflation, Title IX and "financial constraints in the state of Michigan," Northern Michigan athletics will remain at the Division II level, NMU Athletic Director Gil Canale said.

Northern Michigan is currently a member of the Mid-Continent Conference along with Eastern, Western Illinois, Northern Iowa and Youngstown State.

All MCC schools except NMU will be moving to Division I next year, with its football teams competing at the I-AA level.

The I-AA level is between Division II and Division I-A, where schools such as Illinois compete.

Canale said Northern Michigan must remain Division II because it is unfeasible for it to continue playing far-away Division I schools.

Northern Michigan is located in Marquette, Mich.

"They (other schools) are reluctant to come here because of travel costs and the stature of our university," Canale said.

Northern Michigan is in turn reluctant to travel to those schools for the same financial reasons, Canale said.
